

AP Language and Composition
2018-2019 Reading List
Dory Smith djsmith@pasco.k12.fl.us

SUMMER:

Eats, Shoots, and Leaves	Lynne Truss
The Things They Carried	Tim O'Brien

SCHOOL YEAR:

1984	George Orwell
The Great Gatsby	F. Scott Fitzgerald
The Crucible	Arthur Miller
Huckleberry Finn	Mark Twain
John Adams	David McCullough

You should purchase these actual texts so that you can annotate them. If you do not plan to write in the books, I have some available for students to check out in 3-215 – first come, first served.

You should consider having read all the books by the first day of class.

SUMMER ASSIGNMENTS: YES, I WILL GRADE THEM.

1. There will be a test over The Things They Carried on the second day of class.
2. You will turn in two-column notes for Eats, Shoots, and Leaves and The Things They Carried. Pay close attention to important quotes and rhetorical devices. Submit your notes to Turnitin.com by midnight of the second day of class. I will give you the password on the first day.

Do not summarize! Instead, record your textual observations.

1. You must type.
2. You must create two columns (divide the page in half).
3. The Things They Carried: Responses to the quotations should include analysis of the literary and rhetorical techniques present in the quotations, the author's attitude, purpose, or tone.

Eats, Shoots, and Leaves: Responses to the quotations/summaries/paraphrases should address how the quotation applies to your own writing. You might also include analysis of the literary and rhetorical techniques present in the quotations/summaries/paraphrases, the author's attitude, purpose, or tone. What questions do they raise? How will this affect your own writing? What new skill or information did you learn? Respond and react. Do not just state, "The author is saying..."

Warning: The above assignment may cause dizziness, nausea, fatigue, and emotional distress. If you notice any of these symptoms, have a cup of coffee and work harder.

4. You must include at least one quote from every ten pages. Show that you have read and understood the entire text.
5. Include the page number for each of your quotations.

Format:

Quotations from the Text

“Quotation” page #

(Use quotation marks so that Turnitin does not mistake the quote for plagiarism.)

Responses to the Text (such as)

“The imagery reveals...”

“The setting gives the effect of...”

“The author seems to feel...”

“The tone of this part is...”

“This is ironic because...”

“This is an example of ...” (literary device)

“In my writing...”

“This makes me wonder...”

“I never realized...”

Warning: The above assignment may cause dizziness, nausea, fatigue, and emotional distress. If you notice any of these symptoms, have a cup of coffee and work harder.